

How To Set Up A Service Opportunity

1. First, choose to serve.
2. Then, decide if you want to join an existing relationship or create a new one Existing Relationships –These are the most simple and easiest to participate in. You simply join us as we deepen our existing relationships. You simply check the monthly schedule and bring your group along. Mercy Mondays is a good place to get introduced to our existing relationships.

or

Create a project / relationship – Depending on your group's strengths and desires, we will help design and equip you to complete a project of your choice. For example, the Computer Repair Workshop. This is a specialized project that perfectly fits David Kidd's group. You simply contact us and we will help set everything in motion so you can successfully complete the project. See the service list for ideas that you and your community group could do if you desired. Creating a project takes more time and effort, but it can also be more rewarding.

3. Choose a date to do the project
4. Contact the right person.

For existing scheduled service opportunities simply refer to the website to let the service leader know that you will join and participate.
